Foreword

View of Mansfield - looking from construction of new girls' dormitory

this is Mansfield . . .
1967
Carontawan

Defining a word can be as simple as looking in a dictionary. Defining a school, such as Mansfield State College, is a difficult task; it involves people, as well as their thoughts, actions, and feelings. It involves certain abstract qualities which are thought about but not put into words.

This 1966-67 academic year has meant more learning, friends, fun, competition, growth, and improvement for each student and for our college.

The definition of M.S.C. really depends greatly upon the students; it is we who influence in many ways what happenings occur. It is our thoughts, our feelings, our goals, and our actions which help determine the accomplishments and, therefore, the definition, verbal and pictorial, of Mansfield State College.

Anthropology Club

The Anthropology Club field trip to Sheep Rock Shelter near Huntingdon, Pennsylvania, was a fascinating expedition for club members. Sheep Rock Shelter, an Indian archaeological site in the process of excavation, has yielded evidence of passenger pigeon bones and flint chips left from meals and stone tool factories of Indian inhabitants of the site.

Ronald Price, Robert Beals, and Scott Lee join fellow enthusiasts from Huntingdon and Juniata College at the excavation, as shown in these photos taken by anthropology club member, John Vincenti.

Members of the Anthropology Club are feted at the Club's dinner at Hats in Mansfield.

Dracula

The story that asks the question: "Can a girl from a simple English country home"

"Find happiness as the wife of a titled, wealthy Transylvanian, who is also five hundred years older than she?"

For Halloween Weekend, the College Players presented the eerie, tense production of Dracula. The Players set the play in the contemporary period, but played it in the cinema style of the early 1940's. With soundtrack music and high style histrionics, the play was pure escapism. The audience escaped, with the cast, to the eerie moors outside of fog-bound London.

"But she fights back bravely to prove that romance can provide a happy ending (for almost everybody . . .)"

"(Where nothing really ever happens...)"

The Miracle Worker

The Miracle Worker, a story of the triumph of language, was presented for Special Education Month on March 9, 10, 11, 1967, by the College Players. The play presented the emotional, tense, and heart-warming story of Helen Keller and her teacher, Annie Sullivan.

The parents of Helen Keller discover that a minor illness has left the child deaf, dumb, and blind.

Her immediate family discovers that it is impossible for them to cope with the child without expert help.

The only available governess turns out to be twenty year old Annie Sullivan, fresh from an orphanage for the blind.

Annie is tormented by shadow people from her past who stand between her and her expression of love.

Helen and Annie experience a physical clash of personalities.

Annie is forced to remove Helen from her family, much to everyone's sorrow.

Annie comes to an awareness of her love for the strong, independent child.

This awareness leads her to bring Helen to an understanding of language, the key to perception and communication.

The Moon Is Blue

Do blondes really have more fun? Not judging by the havoc Patty O'Neill caused in the life of a young architect in the heart of New York City. Don met Patty on the top of the Empire State Building, unaware of the consequences to follow.

Sudden rainstorms, cozy apartments, and a forty-one year old playboy divorcé provided for an interesting and comical portrayal of The Moon Is Blue, presented by the College Players on April 27,28, and 29, 1967.

Bells are Ringing, a musical production, was the choice of Opera Workshop for its spring presentation on May 11, 12, and 13, 1967.

Jack M. Wilcox directed this popular song and dance musical show, the story of an answering-service operator's involvement in the lives of her clients. The book and lyrics of this rollicking musical were written by Betty Comden and Adolph Green.

Graduation 1967

Graduation is always a colorful spectacle, but to the graduates and their families, it is much more. The seniors go away from Mansfield, never again to be as true a part of her as they once were.

A parting handshake symbolizes the long awaited recognition of achievement.

An end and a beginning...

The once felt hopes, dreams, and ambitions are fast becoming realities for 1967 M.S.C. graduates.

Thoughts of what is yet to come...

A Mansfield tradition: The faculty, having brought the seniors to this threshold in their education, passes in review through the line of graduates.

The tassel has been turned; the walk across the stage has been made.

The President has given his greeting; the diploma has been granted.

The ceremonies have ended, the final responsibilities have been completed, and the first step into the future has been made.

The new college marker is dedicated by Miss Ruth Billings, senior class adviser, senior class officers, President Bryan, and Mr. Fred Jupenlaz, Chairman of the Board of Trustees.

The Class of 1967's gift to their Alma Mater, a marker bearing the name of the College and interchangeable spacers for announcements of college events, already has about it an aura of nostalgia. It has been created with masonry from college buildings that have been razed or are destined to be. The marker contains bricks from the old swimming pool building, Alumni Hall, and North Hall. The entire unit serves as a reminder of the heritage of the past, the realities of the present, and the commitment of the future.

Each college year, with its people and events since the school's beginning in 1857, are symbolically recorded in the marker. Each college year, since 1918, has been faithfully recorded in the college annual, the Carontawan. Both are representative of the love and the labor of students and faculty.

We wish to comment on the work and effort that went into this annual only long enough to express our appreciation to those who gave their time and ideas to the 1967 Carontawan.

We especially wish to acknowledge Bob Schuler, the designer of our cover, for his artistic recording of a college landmark soon to disappear.
